On November 17, you have the opportunity to take on the challenge of the future.

For the past 20 years, Illinois Tech faculty and staff have worked to raise the stature and long-term prospects of the university. But we still have a long way to go, and on IIT Giving Day, your help will make a difference.

During her nine years at Illinois Tech, Associate Vice President of Marketing Denise Moriarty has seen the university change for the better. She has grown in her career helping to make this happen, and she knows many faculty and staff who have done the same.

"I assumed lots of people gave back to Illinois Tech, but I have learned that some don't simply because they don't know that they can and should. We need to be thankful for what we have—Illinois Tech is a great place."

Moriarty points to the excellent benefits, bonus time off, parties, and events that university employees enjoy.

"Illinois Tech really takes care of us. If each member of the staff and faculty gives what we can, it adds up."

Moriarty is grateful for the students who make the rewarding jobs at Illinois Tech possible. Donating to the university is one way to smooth their journeys toward graduation.

"Giving back to Illinois Tech makes me feel good about myself. It's the commitment of faculty and staff that provides a brighter future for everyone on campus, and I am proud of the work we do.

"I want to see us continue to grow."
